THE SUBMARINE MATTER

U. S. TELLS GERMANY PRESENT PLAN MUST CEASE.

Note May Cause Rupture in Diplomatic Relations or Cause War.

Washington, April 19.—President Wilson's long expected final warning to Germany that the United States will break off diplomatic relations unless she abandons her present methods of submarine warfare, and immediately declares her intention to do so, was delivered today in a note to Berlin and was announced by the president in an address to a joint session of congress. The president demands nothing less than the abandonment of submarine warfare against commerce.

Both the president's address and the American note declare in unequivocal terms that only by Germany acceding to the demand can the breaking off of relations be prevented.

The president considers that the next step depends solely upon Germany and that three or four days constitute a reasonable time for a reply. He is willing to discuss how submarine warfare may be conducted within the limits of international law and humanity after Germany abandons her present methods.

Diplomatic history records only one instance as yet where a breaking of relations between two first-class powers has not eventually brought war—that which now exists between Germany and Italy.

Attitude of Congress. Congress received the president's declaration of his course with mixed evidences of concern and approbation. Most of the leaders, Democrat and Republican, thought the president hardly could do less and some expressed the opinion that his action would not lead to war.

Republican Leader Mann alone of all the opposition leaders openly attacked the president for his stand. He characterized it as a political play.

President Wilson's words leave no opportunity for double meaning. In his address to congress he said:

"I have deemed it my duty to say to the imperial German government that if it is still its purpose to persecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare *** the government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue; and that unless the imperial German government should now, immediately, declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of warfare against passengers and freight-carrying vessels this government can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations altogether."

Excerpt From Note.

The note to Berlin declares: "The government of the United States has been very patient. *** It has accepted the successive explanations and assurances of the imperial government as, of course, given in entire sincerity and good faith, and has hoped even against hope that it would prove to be possible for the imperial government so to order and control the acts of its naval commanders as to square its policy with the recognized principles of humanity as embodied in the law of nations. *** It has made every allowance for unprecedented conditions and has been willing to wait until the facts became unmistakable and were susceptible of only one interpretation."

"It now owes it to a just regard for its own rights to say to the imperial government that that time has come."

Painfully Evident.

"It has become painfully evident to it that the position which it took at the very outset is inevitable, namely, the use of submarines for the destruction of an enemy's commerce is of necessity because it is the very character of the vessels employed and very methods of attacks which their employment, of course, involves, utterly incompatible with the principles of humanity, the long established and incontrovertible rights of neutrals and the sacred immunities of non-combatants."

"If it is still the purpose of the imperial government to persecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare against vessels of commerce by the use of submarines, *** the government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue."

"Unless the imperial government should now, immediately, declare and effect an abandonment of its present methods of submarine warfare against passenger and freight carrying vessels, the government of the United States can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations with the German empire altogether."

DIED OF STRONG DRINK.

Cat Became a Toper and Expired All in One Night.

In an alcove of the jail yard, Ole, the county jail cat lies buried beneath a neat mound of ashes and cinders, with a crossboard bearing the words "He died of drink," above his head.

The legend on the crossboard is true. Ole died of drink. Not drink of poor quality, but smooth, 100 proof stuff that he imbibed not well but too copiously.

Ole was locked in a room containing hundreds of quarts of liquor that had been seized in raids. One of the barrels of whiskey had sprung a leak. Some of the pungent amber liquid had made a little pool in the centre of the floor. Ole lapped at it gingerly. It bit his tongue and he made a wry face.

Then a wonderful change came over him. He felt rejuvenated. He felt powerful and combative. Throwing back his head disdainfully, he looked around for Deputy Bush's dog that he might whip him. But the door was locked. So Ole went back and lapped again at the queer, fiery liquid that bit his tongue. It beat any catnip he ever tasted. Again he imbibed.

They found him at daybreak, and buried him with impressive honors. As a mark of respect they half-masted the flag that drapes the picture of Sheriff Hodge directly over the fireplace. And so passed Ole, the victim of his waywardness, and a cracked stave in the biggest whiskey barrel in the "evidence" room.—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

Infringing.

One morning little Mary hung about the kitchen continually, bothering the busy cook to death. The cook lost patience finally.

"Clear out o' here, ye sassy little brat!" she shouted, thumping the table with a rolling pin.

The little girl gave the cook a haughty look.

"I never allow any one but my mother to speak to me like that," she said.

"You've had plenty of rain in your section?"

"Yep. Hurt my crop, too."

"Will you lose much money?"

"No; I'll break about even by hauling autos out of mudholes."—Pittsburg Post.
